3 Identity management
   Checklist 54
The introduction of a unified government identity is part of an initiative to streamline government communications and make engagement with citizens simpler and better. This document provides guidance on the basic elements and application of the identity system.
Using these guidelines

These symbols will help you to identify items of specific interest to your area of expertise or consideration.

Core Idea
This symbol highlights specific ideas to be understood. At the heart of effective identity management is shared understanding.

Look & Feel
This symbol highlights the elements that inform the visual appearance and graphic style of our identity system.

Messaging
This symbol highlights information that will assist you in considering the way we communicate with words.

Technical
This symbol highlights information of a technical nature relating to creating and implementing artwork.

Take Care
This symbol alerts you to common mistakes to watch out for or areas that may be open to misunderstanding.
Identity elements

This section of the guidelines introduces you to the basic building blocks of our visual identity such as our marks, colours and typography. By using this kit of parts we can create a consistent housestyle that is unified while having the flexibility to create diverse messages.
The State Harp

BACKGROUND
Ireland has the distinction of being the only nation to have a musical instrument as a national emblem. The harp was first recorded as the arms of Ireland in medieval times. It is depicted as such alongside the coats of arms of a dozen or more medieval European kingdoms on a single folio of the Wijnbergen roll of arms (a Flemish roll of arms) compiled about 1270. The model for the current standard representation of the heraldic harp is the 14th century harp now preserved in the Museum of Trinity College Dublin, popularly known as the Brian Boru or Brian Borumha Harp.

The Government, its agencies and its representatives at home and abroad, use the Harp as the ordinary emblem of the State. It is the principal element of the seals of the Office of the President and all Government Ministers.

APPLICATION STANDARDS
When using the State Harp please note that the following application standards should be followed:

1. Only use master artwork when reproducing the State Harp. Master artworks of the State Harp can be identified by the following:
   - There are 12 strings on the State Harp
   - The outer edge uses a thicker line
   - There is only a single element in the foot of the harp

2. The State Harp should always face left.

3. The strings should always be vertical.

4. A minimum clear space should be maintained around the State Harp at all times.

The State Harp is the central element of the Government of Ireland unified identity. Over recent years the State Harp has been depicted in a variety of forms. Now, under the new identity, a single consistent rendering of the harp will be used.

The State Harp is the official emblem and symbol of the state government. The State Harp should only be used to identify government initiatives and communications, and should always be used in a manner that affords it appropriate status and respect.
GOVERNMENT MARK
The Government Mark is our single unified identifier across all of government. Our intention is to create a greater sense of clarity and consistency in how we communicate the work of government. It is made up of the State Harp and our organisational name — Rialtas na hÉireann / Government of Ireland.

DEPARTMENT MARKS
Department Mark are for communications that are specifically about the department involved. This might include stationery, reports, the release of financial data, front line services etc. It is made up of the name of the department and the State Harp. When departments work together they should apply the unified identity — the Government Mark.

When do I use the Government or Department Mark?

Government Mark
The Government Mark is the default mark for promotional communications. It appears on advertising and brochures or reports aimed at engaging with the general public. Individual departments involved in the delivery of specific initiatives are identified through the use of a supporting line of text.

Department Mark
Department Marks are used for day-to-day operational communications. These include correspondence (letterheads and forms), business cards, individual department building signage, and internal communications such as departmental newsletters or operational reports.
The official mark consists of the State Harp, a tapered line, and the wordmark with the name of the specific entity in Irish and English.

The same construction is used for the unified government mark as for department marks. Depending on the length of the departmental name the wordmark can be two or four lines. The line breaks for longer names have been chosen to achieve the most visually compact outcome for the mark.

WORDMARK TYPOGRAPHY
The Irish text in the wordmark is set in Quadraat Bold. The English text in the wordmark is set in Quadraat Regular.

⚠️ Please only use official artworks when reproducing government and departmental marks. Do not attempt to create your own versions of the mark.

⚠️ When referring to the size of a mark we reference the length of its tapered line in millimetres.
Mark
Lock-up versions

‘Lock-up’ refers to the fixed relationship between the State Harp, line, and typography. The mark is available in three different lock-ups: standard, centred and vertical.

A compact version has been created for the Government Mark only.

STANDARD
The standard lock-up is the default version of the mark to be used. This lock-up is typically placed in the top left or bottom right corner of an item.

CENTRED
The centred lock-up is used in instances where it is preferable for the typography to be centred under the State Harp.

VERTICAL
The vertical lock-up is also centred and is only ever used for applications with a strong vertical bias such as the front of a lectern, vertical flags or banners.

COMPACT
The compact lock-up is used for the government mark only in instances where a horizontal lock-up is preferred and space is limited.

File formats

MARK FORMATS
Marks are provided in a variety of formats to suit the background against which they are being placed.

FILE FORMATS
Mark artworks are supplied in PNG, EPS and SVG formats.

PNG — Office use
PNG files are bitmap files to be used in general office applications such as MS Word, PowerPoint or Email. Note that PNG can be used in place of a JPG file.

EPS — Professional use
EPS files are ‘vector files’ and should be used for professionally designed items such as brochures or signage. EPS are typically used in professional design programmes such as Adobe Illustrator or InDesign.

SVG — Digital use
SVG is a high-quality vector format for use on websites and other digital formats. The standard version of each mark is supplied in SVG file format.

All government and department marks and lock-ups are supplied in the full range of versions.
The correct version of the mark should be selected to suit the background against which it is being placed. The mark should only be used against a low-contrast background.

NOTE

1. Use the colour version of the mark against white or off-white backgrounds. Off-white backgrounds are acceptable but only if they are tonally lighter than 5% black.

2. Use the colour reverse version of the mark against dark coloured backgrounds such as State Green. Ensure that the colour of the State Harp has sufficient contrast against the background colour.

3. Use the white version of the mark against mid-tone or dark coloured backgrounds.

4. Use the single colour version of the mark against light coloured backgrounds.

5. The white version of the mark is recommended when placing the mark on low-contrast dark areas of image backgrounds.

6. The single colour version of the mark is recommended when placing the mark on low-contrast light areas of image backgrounds. Note that in this example the single colour artwork is reproduced in State Green.

7. Do not use the colour mark against colour image backgrounds. Always ensure the mark can be read easily against the background.

8. Do not use the mark against high contrast elements of image backgrounds. Always ensure the mark can be read easily against the background.
Mark
Clear space

The space around the mark should be left clear of other graphic elements. When using the mark within a graphic box the sides should not come too close to the mark itself.

NOTE

1. Clear space should be left around the mark. We recommend a minimum of quarter of the height of the mark is left clear on all sides.

2. If you need to place the mark in a box against a background make sure that minimum space is left around the mark.

3. Incorrect use. The box into which the mark has been placed should have the minimum clear space around the mark.
When referring to the size of a mark we reference the length of its tapered line in millimetres.

SUGGESTED SIZING

<td>A3</td>
<td>26mm</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>A4</td>
<td>22mm</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>A5</td>
<td>18mm</td>
</tr>
</tbody>
</table>

When sizing the mark, consideration should be made for the process being used to reproduce or print the mark and the material on which it is being reproduced or printed.

We recommend that if under 10mm the mark is used in single colour.

Positioning the mark in the top left is generally used for operational items such as reports, and text based announcements. These are items that lead with the government or department and the content below aligns with the wordmark.

BOTTOM RIGHT
Positioning the mark in the bottom right is generally used for announcements or promotional activity where the message or specific campaign is leading.

Ireland Mark

INTERNATIONAL MARK
When presenting the Government of Ireland overseas the international mark is used. This consists of the wordmark Ireland in lock-up with the State Harp and the tapered line.

WEB ADDRESS
In international contexts the ireland.ie web address is used.
State Green and State Gold are used in the construction of official marks and are the main colours used when identifying the government. White should also be considered a colour within the identity system.

Supporting these primary colours we also use black and two tones of grey with many of the core applications of the identity.

Secondary colours are used to reflect the variety and diversity of content across government. Colours should be selected to reflect subject matter being presented.

We recommend the number of secondary colours used in combination to be no more than two or three.
Typography

PRIMARY TYPEFACES
The visual identity system consists of two primary typefaces: Lato (a sans serif typeface) and Quadraat OT (a serif typeface). These two typefaces should be used for all professionally designed items.

Quadraat OT
The styles and weights of Quadraat OT used within the identity system are: Bold; Bold italic; Regular; Italic. Note that Quadraat OT is an OpenType (OT) typeface.

Lato
Lato is available in 16 styles, including Light, Regular, Bold, and Black weights with their corresponding italic versions.

SECONDARY TYPEFACES
In certain situations it may not be possible to install or embed the primary typefaces for use in a document. In these instances system typefaces (typefaces that are already installed in your computer system) can be used. We refer to these typefaces as our secondary typefaces. Uses include MS Word and PowerPoint documents.

Our secondary typefaces are Arial (a sans serif typeface) and Georgia (a serif typeface).

Standard A4 grid

A4 GRID
Using a grid to structure the design of reports and brochures supports consistency and coherency across all publications.

The standard A4 grid is based on nine columns on a 12pt baseline grid. The grid facilitates dynamic layouts as well as single column correspondence or reports.

Please refer to the typography pages in section 1 of this guideline for suggestions on type sizes.

Grid construction specifications are indicated on the next page.
Standard A4 Grid

Typography
Using the standard A4 grid

The standard grid offers a wide range of layouts. Illustrated here are some of the many possible ways it can be used to structure content.

Single column
Single column layouts occupy eight columns of the grid and leave the left hand column free. This reduces the line length and supports readability of the text.

Two column
For two column layouts the left hand column is also left free and the text occupies 2 x 4 columns of the grid.

Three column
For three column layouts all nine columns of the grid are used in a 3 x 3 column configuration.

Multi column / headline over image
This layout illustrates use of a large introductory image over which the headline is placed. The introduction text spans eight columns, while the body text spans 2 x 4 columns.

Multi article newsletter
This layout illustrates how the grid can be used for newsletter layout by combining variations of column options to distinguish between articles.

Asymmetric listing
This layout illustrates the grid being used to present a set of sub-articles. The headline and image for each occupies the left three columns of the grid while the body text for each spans the remaining 2 x 3 columns.

CONSTRUCTION

The housestyle graphic is used to establish a recognisable housestyle across print and digital communications.

1. Two or more overlapping shapes are used and are constructed using an angle of 15°.

2. The overall direction should appear to move upwards as the eyes move from left to right.

Covers can also be differentiated by changing the colour of this graphic or by including images or illustrations within it. Examples of colour use are illustrated in Section 2 of this guideline.

The housestyle graphic is versatile enough to be used a wide variety of ways while creating a coherent housestyle.

Note how it can be inverted to accommodate the mark in the top left or bottom right of a layout.

Identity applications

This section shows you all the elements of the identity brought together. When looking at the various examples, please consider the context in which each one might be applied. These visuals are intended to offer a prompt to the generation of new communications.

PRE-PRINTED LETTERHEAD
The preprinted letterhead paper is used in combination with a Microsoft Word document set to the correct margins and type styles. The word template contains no graphics.

This page outlines the difference between using the pre-printed letterhead and an eLetterhead.

eLETTERHEAD
The eLetterhead is a Microsoft Word template that contains the header and footer graphics. This allows you to print out the correspondence on a blank sheet of paper or to generate a PDF for email or electronic distribution.
Letterhead

Print specification
Printed in State Green and State Gold on white uncoated wove paper stock, ±130gms.

Colour
State Green: PMS 3292U
State Gold: PMS 872U

Foil blocking
If preferred the State Harp can also be foil-blocked in gold.

Artwork templates
Adobe InDesign (CC version) templates are available for the creation of pre-print artwork. The typeface Lato is required. This artwork is also used to print the continuation sheet but only the gold plate is printed.

Please take note of how telephone numbers are created. No brackets or full stops are used.

Left: 30mm / Right: 30mm
Header: 45mm / Footer: 30mm

Address & contact details
Please provide your printer or artworker with the correct address and contact details in Irish and English. They can input the details on the InDesign template before printing the pre-printed letterhead. Note that the address appears in Irish (Lato Bold) and English (Lato Regular). Telephone numbers, email addresses, and web addresses are not inserted twice.

Additional marks / logos
Should endorsement logos (e.g. the use of recycled paper, public initiatives, or service assurance marks) be required they should be printed in a 40% tint of State Green in the bottom right corner of the letterhead. They should be kept separate from the contact information in the footer.
PRINT SPECIFICATION
Printed in State Gold, on white uncoated wove paper stock, ±130gms.

Colour
State Gold: PMS 872U*

Foil blocking
If preferred the State Harp can be foil-blocked in gold.

Artwork
To print the continuation sheet use the pre-print artwork and only print the gold plate.

Left: 30mm / Right: 30mm
Header: 45mm / Footer: 30mm

Page number
The page number appears in the footer in 8pt Arial. The page number should align with the main body of text.

Header
If putting a runner header in the document, the header text should be inserted in 8pt Arial and align with the body of the text. Its location is indicated in blue lines in the header of the page above.
An eLetterhead template is supplied in MS Word. This contains the graphics within the header and footer and does not require a pre-printed letterhead.

The template is created using the system typeface Arial. No additional typefaces are required for regular use.

eLetterheads can be exported to PDF if the correspondence is being sent electronically.

Please note that the specific address and contact details need to be saved into the document footer. Once updated with this information the document should then be saved as a template file (.docx) and shared for use across the department or specific departmental unit as appropriate.
Presentation template

MS PowerPoint presentation templates have been designed to assist in the creation of effective and consistent presentations. The template uses the Arial typeface (available on all computers). The presentation is set to a 16:9 ratio, the standard for most screens and presentations used today.

PRINT OR SCREEN

The State Green title and chapter slides are preferred for screen presentations.

If you wish your presentation to be more print friendly we suggest that you use the white background title or chapter slides option.

Report covers

CONSTRUCTION

1 Mark
A 22mm mark is placed in the top left corner. The Government Mark should be considered default and used for reports aimed at the general public. Operational reports for internal use, or that address a department specific audience may use the Department Mark.

2 Alignment of text
Text on the cover of the report should align with the text in the wordmark. This gives the page structure and clear hierarchy.

3 Headline copy
Headline and subhead are placed an appropriate distance below the mark with weight of type being used to create hierarchy between headline and subheading.

4 Housestyle graphic
The housestyle graphic is used to establish a recognisable housestyle across print and digital communications. Covers can be differentiated by changing the colour of this graphic or by including images or illustrations within it. The proportions can also be changed but the angle of 15° should be maintained.

5 Endorsement and web address
When the report carries the Government Mark the endorsement line can acknowledge the department(s) involved in the preparation of the report. The most appropriate URL (website address) should be set in Lato Black beneath the endorsement line. The endorsement line and URL are set in 10.5/12pt Lato Regular and Lato Black.
Report covers
Muted colour use

DIFFERENTIATION
This page illustrates how report covers can be differentiated through the use of colour. In these examples only the main colour panel is changed and a muted colour palette is used in combination with overlaying graduations of warm grey to create an understated tone and difference between reports. This approach is recommended for internal reports and working documents, or where a neutral expression is more appropriate.
E X P R E S S I O N

This page illustrates how the use of more saturated colours in different combinations can create a more expressive design while accentuating the difference between covers. Colours can be chosen to reflect the tone, character or subject matter to which they refer. When combining colours in this way, more skill is required to ensure that an appropriate aesthetic is achieved.
Report covers
With images

HALF IMAGE
Images can be used on the bottom section of the report and framed within the housestyle graphic. Overlays of solid or graduated colour can be used to add visual interest. This option keeps the headline type against a white background making it easier to layout and maintain legibility of the type.

FULL / MULTIPLE IMAGE
Covers can be created with full images, or as illustrated here, with multiple images. When using this approach be sure to maintain the legibility of the headline by placing it against a low contrast background.
Pull-up banners

The banners illustrated here lead with the core identity or an image. These basic banners are used to identify the government or specific departments at events.

CORE IDENTITY ON GREEN
The centred version of the mark is presented against State Green.

CORE IDENTITY ON WHITE
The centred version of the mark is presented against white above the housestyle graphic in State Green. In this context other colours from the extended colour palette could be introduced for additional banners.

IMAGE OPTION
The centred version of the mark is presented against white and above an image that is contained within the housestyle element.
Pull-up banners
Image based banners

Images can be used to recognise the diversity of activity across government. The banners illustrated here are for illustrative purposes only.

Single image examples

An Roinn Leasai agus Gnóthaí Oige
Department of Children and Youth Affairs

An Roinn Títhíochta, Pléasail agus Rialtais Amhail
Department of Housing, Planning and Local Government

An Roinn Airgeadais
Department of Finance

Multiple image examples

An Roinn Talmhaíochta, Bia agus Mara
Department of Agriculture, Food and the Marine

An Roinn Forbartha Tusaithe agus Pobail
Department of Rural and Community Development

An Roinn Cultúir, Oideachtachta agus Gaeltachta
Department of Culture, Heritage, and the Gaeltacht
Banners can be created with the mark appearing against either white or State Green depending on the preferred tonality and context for the banner.

WHITE
Using the mark against white conveys a fresher more contemporary tone.

STATE GREEN
Using the mark against State Green conveys greater strength and authority.
Press announcements can be handled in a number of ways — from text only black and white to colour imagery. Regardless of the approach please be sure to follow the five elements listed to the right.

1. Text only / black & white
   When creating single colour type only announcements ensure that type is clear and readable.

2. Text only / Colour
   This text based announcement uses colour from the primary colour palette. The type overprints a light background ensuring good reproduction.

3. Half image
   This version caters for the introduction of an image without having the need to overlay typography.

4. Full image
   Full images may be used but care should be taken to ensure good readability of type placed on the image.

Press announcements
Type only / Half image

Images can be introduced to an announcement to assist engagement with the content by adding to the stand-out or attractiveness of the communication.

KEY POINTS

1 Mark
The mark is positioned in the bottom right of the announcement. The colour version of the standard mark is used against white.

2 Endorsement
A supporting line is used at the top of the announcement. This line can be used to acknowledge the government and departmental role.

3 Text
Clear typographic hierarchy:
— Strong short headline
— Body text
— Clear call to action

4 Housestyle graphic
The colour of the housestyle graphic picks up on a dominant colour from within the image.

5 Image
An image can be used to embellish or highlight focus of message. When selecting an image consider how it supports the communication of your message and the overall aesthetic it helps to create.

Unity & diversity

By applying the identity system consistently every piece of communication can contribute to a coherent and unified image for all of government. At the same time by presenting the diversity of content we can also project the diversity of activities delivered by all of government.

The visuals illustrated here demonstrate how we can both unify our communications while recognising the diversity of our respective activities and communications.
Images can be introduced to the announcement to assist in the public identifying the theme or to add to the stand-out and attractiveness of the communication.

KEY POINTS

1. Mark
   The mark is positioned in the bottom right of the announcement. The colour version of the standard mark is used against white.

2. Endorsement
   A supporting line is used at the top of the announcement. This line can be used to acknowledge the government and departmental role.

3. Text
   Clear typographic hierarchy:
   - Strong short headline
   - Body text
   - Clear call to action

   Care should be taken when placing the text over an image to ensure appropriate contrast.

4. Housestyle graphic
   The housestyle graphic is used to contain the full image and frame the mark.

5. Image
   The housestyle graphic is filled with a full image. Note that the image has as an overlay of colour behind the text to ensure good readability.

Signs can be subject to local planning requirements and limitations on space or location. When considering a sign, consideration should be given to the most appropriate format for the specific context.

STANDARD

Use the standard mark when creating horizontal panel signs or where the mark is used as a header for floors or directions as illustrated below.

CENTRED

The centred mark can be used for square or vertical formats.

---

Note how on listing signs the information aligns with the wordmark.

STATE GREEN
Signs can be created using a State Green panel. Possible materials include enamelled steel, powder-coated steel or Alucabond. The State harp should be applied in gold and the line and wordmark in white.

WHITE
Signs can be created using a white panel. Possible materials include enamelled steel, powder-coated steel or Alucabond. The State Harp should be applied in gold and the line and wordmark in State Green.

BRASS
When creating a brass panel sign the mark should be etched into the plate and enamel filled in black.

BRUSHED STEEL
When creating a brushed steel panel sign the mark should be etched into the plate and enamel filled in either black, dark grey or State Green.

⚠️ Note: the State Harp should not be used in gold against brass or brushed steel.
Now that you understand our unified visual identity, we need to ensure that we manage it effectively. Managing an identity is like tending to a garden. It is a constant process to ensure that we retain coherency while allowing new ideas to flourish.
Creating a piece of communications will require you to write a brief, create a design, and in many cases have the design printed or produced in some fashion. This simple check-list provides you with the top-line considerations for each stage of the process.

Brief

When preparing a brief or creating an item of communications, please consider the following:

- The specific objective you wish to achieve
- The specific audience you wish to connect with and the ideas that will resonate with them
- The context within which that connection will be made
- The feelings and thoughts you wish to evoke
- The limitations and possibilities of the proposed communications channels
- How you might simplify, humanise or energise the information to communicate more effectively.

Design

Before starting to design, check that you have the following:

- A clear brief with an understanding of the specific audience and objectives
- An understanding of the visual identity building blocks and the unified visual identity for government
- Original mark artworks and the primary typefaces required for informational texts
- Identified artwork and copy writing requirements
- Supplied information arranged into a clear hierarchy to focus messages and ensure simple, effective impact
- Considered copy (and if required imagery) that engage with the intended audience.

Production

When producing artwork, ensure that the following are addressed:

- Original mark artwork has been used in the right colour and with appropriate visibility
- The specified typefaces have been used for informational texts
- Headlines have been given appropriate typographic contrast and sub-headings are used as appropriate within body copy
- The style and tone are appropriate to the audience and consistent with the housestyle
- The housestyle graphic device is used effectively if required – and not over-used!
- The final design is as simple and focused on desired objectives and outcomes.
